Objective: To encourage the student-teachers to develop a research-oriented attitude.

SSR College of Education, Sayli, Silvassa, organized an orientation session for B.Ed. 306 – Educational Research on 08 August 2026. The session, held from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, focused on the topic “Educational Research – Concept & Steps”.

The session was conducted by Mr. Pankaj Nagmoti, Assistant Professor, Vishwasatya College of Education, Ozar (MIG), Nashik. The session aimed to develop a clear understanding among student-teachers about the nature, purpose, and systematic process of educational research. Felicitation of guest done by the in-charge principal, Dr. Sarika Patel .

Mr. Nagmoti began by explaining the concept and meaning of research and its significance in the field of education. He emphasized that educational research is a systematic and scientific process for studying educational problems, generating knowledge, and finding solutions to improve teaching-learning practices. A major focus of the session was the various steps involved in the research process. Mr. Nagmoti sequentially explained the process, beginning with the identification and selection of a research problem and the identification of the population and sample.

Mr. Nagmoti also emphasised the importance of observing problems in their educational surroundings and approaching them objectively and systematically. The interactive session provided opportunities for students to clarify their doubts and understand the practical application of the research process.

Learning Outcomes

The orientation session enabled the student-teachers to:

- Understand the meaning, nature and concept of educational research.
- Recognize the need and importance of education research.
- Identify the major steps involved in the research process.

Conclusion

The orientation session on “Educational Research – Concept & Steps” was informative, interactive and academically enriching. The session provided a strong foundation for their future research and practical work in their B.Ed. 306 – Educational Research.
